Two Mew Sets in the Illustrated Cabinet Editions

WORKS OF

JOHN RUSKIN

IN 26 VOLUMES

or previous edition of Ruskin has fully met the requirements of exacting book-lovers; the Illustrated Cabinet Edition, we believe, will.

Printed from beautiful, clear type, well spaced, on deckle-edge, soft laid paper, equal to the finest hand-made as far as results in printing are concerned, and producing a volume light in weight.

The full-page illustrations number 288, and include all the colored plates, steel engravings, etchings, and process cuts in all the original shades. In addition to the full-page illustrations are the cuts in the text—many hundreds of them altogether.

The volumes are bound with flat backs and uncut edges, excepting gilt tops, in a handsome cloth, with an especially appropriate full gold back design. Size, a tall 12mo. The works will be sold separately at $1.50 per volume.

The complete set, 26 volumes, cloth, $39.00; half calf or morocco, $78.00.

WORKS OF

WILLIAM H. PRESCOTT

IN 16 VOLUMES

COMPLETE edition of the famous historian's writings by arrangement with his original publishers. Containing all of Mr. Prescott's revisions and those books still in copyright.

The illustrations form one of the salient features. They have been secured by a liberal outlay, from the widest and most authentic sources. They are extremely helpful to an understanding of the text, and are at the same time a splendid ornament to this edition. They consist of about 100 full-page illustrations, embracing steel engravings, photogravures, and half-tones.

Printed from new clear type on deckle-edge laid paper. The volumes are bound with flat backs, gilt tops, and uncut edges in an appropriate cloth, with a very handsome full gold back stamp. Size, a tall 12mo. The works will be sold separately at $1.50 per volume.

The complete set, 16 volumes, cloth, $24.00; half calf or morocco, $48.00.

Our new 1897 catalogue is now ready and will be mailed free on application.

THE FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY announce that "Wolfville," Alfred Henry Lewis's book of life in Arizona, has reached a second edition in America, and has just been brought out in England. The publishers have denied a statement made in the New York Tribune that they were withholding Gissing's "The Whirlpool" so that it might not appear simultaneously in England and America, but arouse two sensations by appearing at different times. The Frederick A. Stokes Company explain that the time of publication of the same book here and in England is almost always connected with the serial rights in the books, which are heavily paid for by the magazines and must be protected.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish during September "Thomas and Matthew Arnold, and their influence on English education," by J. G. Fitch; "The Sub-Conscious Self, in its relation to education and health," by Louis Waldstein; "English Lands, Letters, and Kings," covering the later Georges to Queen Victoria; and "Selected Poems," by George Meredith, arranged by the author. Of historical interest are "The Battle of Franklin," by Gen. Jacob D. Cox; "Catherine Schuyler," by Mary Gay Humphries, the new volume in the Women of Colonial and Revolutionary Times, which completes the set; and "Social Life in Old Virginia Before the War," by Thomas Nelson Page. Various works of fiction and the new juveniles for the holiday trade will also be issued in September.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS announce that they will include in their series of the Writings of the Fathers of the Republic "The Works of Samuel Adams," edited by Harry Alonzo Cushing. Dr. Cushing is a member of the Department of History of Columbia University. He has already published "The History of the Transition from Provincial to Commonwealth Government in Massachusetts," and has made some other noteworthy contributions to the history of the same period. The present work will be the first collected edition of the writings of Samuel Adams, and it will include much material which has never before been published. The editor or the publishers will be pleased to come into correspondence with any one who has material which calls for consideration in connection with the preparation of the work.

LAIRD & LEE, in answer to a growing demand for books on the semi-occult sciences, made manifest by the large sales of their "Practical Palmistry," by Comte C. de Saint-Germain, are issuing an exhaustive illustrated treatise by H. R. Evans, entitled "Hours with the Ghosts," and a work on "Alexander Herrmann: his life, his secrets;" both books written by accomplished experts in their specialties. dainty little volume, illustrated by an Italian artist, will contain an excellent translation of H. de Amicis's "La Maestrini degli Operai," published for the first time in America under the title "Won by a Woman." An entirely new and enlarged edition of "Whitelaw's Interest Tables and Bankers' Charts" is added to the long list of the firm's valuable reference-books, which has just been enriched by their "Grimm-Webster German-English and English-German Dictionary." Under the name of "Fleur-de-Lis Collection," Laird & Lee are bringing out, in exquisite bindings, four of the most famous French novels of the century: "Camors,"
"Madame Bovary," "The Chouans," and
"Duchess Annette," the masterpieces of Feuillet, Flaubert, Balzac, and Dumas fils. Finally, in the children's department, a most original booklet of rhymes, illustrated throughout, and with cover in colors, is issued under the title of "Jupiter Jingles, or, a trip to Mysteryland," and bids fair to emulate the great success of its predecessor, "Yellow Beauty: a story about

A story of British India; the author is an officer in the Bengal Civil Service, and has drawn his material largely from life. The time of the story is the year 1903 at the opening, and it goes on to 1908. It turns upon a deception practised by Jack Ravenhill, a twin brother, his older brother by a few minutes being the future Earl of Severn. Jack loves an Indian princess, whose life is endangered by a religious war. The narrative is full of exciting and probable adventures. The mistakes of England in India are set forth, and their possible result pictured.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

AUGUST 28, 1897.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications,

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the Weekly solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of The Publishers' Weekly is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

DIFFERENTIATION IN BOOK PUB-LISHING.

Any acute observer of the book-publishing trade must have had forced upon his mind in recent years the fact that book-publishing embraces two or three distinct lines of business, the confusion of which results in a general confusion of the conditions of the publishing business. There are, in fact, three distinctive classes of book-publishing. First, there are the cheap standards and like books, on which there is no copyright protection, and on which there is and always will be unlimited competition. These have practically become articles of manufacture, on which, by good judgment, a manufacturing profit may be made, but nothing more. There are, again, the distinctively new books, some of which may be successes, many of which are bound to be failures, and failures which must be paid for out of the proceeds of the successful books, or out of some other line of publishing. The third line, which is after all the most solid in the publishing business, and is its substantial foundation, is the large class of books protected by copyright which are of permanent value and good sale. These furnish from year to year a profit which includes a return not simply on manufacturing investment, but a publishing profit paying for the skill which the publisher as such has shown in the selection of such books.

It must be recognized that these several classes of books demand quite different treatment all through the successive processes of publishing-in their cost, in their mechanical appearance, in the arrangements with authors, in advertising, in methods of distribution, and in prices. There is little analogy from one to the other. The first line is, it must be confessed, not so much unlike the grocery business, or the soap business, or other lines of ordinary manufacturing. The second line is a business distinctly and distinctively speculative, and it is here that the publisher must exercise to the full those capabilities of judgment, of prophesying the public taste, which must be the outfit of the true publisher. Here the market must be tested, and the new author or the new book given the best chance, by appealing to the public with every attraction of form and with every benefit of clever advertising. The third line again is still different, being, as it were, between the other two and affording ballast for the publishing business, the fund out of which insurance can be paid for the failures of books of the second class as to which the publisher has not been wise.

It would be interesting to follow this differentiation out in detail through the several lines. Differentiation is the order of the day in most lines of business, curiously enough, alongside of the concentration and grouping of business which brings so many lines into the province of a single store, or under the control of a single business man. But we merely indicate these lines as affording food for thought, of which the wise publisher, and, indeed, the alert bookseller, can make useful application.

MR. HOWARD CHALLEN calls attention elsewhere to the movement of the Merchants' Association in New York to boom the metropolis, and urges representation in it on the part of the book trade. From the local point of view, such representation seems justified by the fact that large numbers of buyers have been brought to New York, and considerable orders procured, by the extensive and enterprising work of the Association. But THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY speaks for the entire trade, and it is not yet quite certain whether trade in its entirety has been increased by these methods, or only diverted from other places or advanced in time by the dangerous device of post-dating bills to give longer credit. Nous verrons.

THE LUCK OF BOOK-HUNTERS.

THE Providence that watches over bookhunters is the subject of an article in the August number of Chambers's Journal. The article itself has an interesting history, for it was written thirty years ago, and the facts it contains were communicated to the writer, Anna Blackwell, by the father of Robert Browning. Out of the many instances of wonderful "finds" given, we select two:

"A work on astrology, believed to be unique, without title-page, but bearing date 1473, and con equently one of the earliest specimens of printing extant, having been brought out twenty years after the discovery of the art, exquisitely printed, with all the capital letters put in by hand, some of them being done in gold and others in colour-was picked up at a London bookstall for fifteen pence."

Such a "find" is inconceivable nowadays, when the tendency of people ignorant of books is to over-value, not to under-value, any volume that has a quaint appearance. A London book-hunter of the last generation gave to his son, as the "nest egg" of his future library, a translation of "The Life and Character of Theophrastus," minus the title-page, but attributed to Coleman; and in making the present he wrote his name on the flyleaf. A few years afterwards the son went to Jamaica, where the translation was borrowed by a military officer on service in that colony. The latter was unexpectedly transferred with his regiment to another place, and inadvertently took the manuscript with him-greatly to the annoyance of its owner, who for obvious reasons prized the volume very highly. For some time he made unavailing attempts to learn the whereabouts of the officer, but eventually relinquished the effort and gave up the book for lost. Fiveand-twenty years afterwards he was strolling down the Old Kent Road when he came to the shop of a dealer in old iron. As he glanced into its dingy depths, he suddenly espied his lost translation stowed away upon a shelf. Hastily entering the shop, he bought back his missing treasure for the sum of sixpence, which the marine store dealer seemed to think himself very lucky in getting for it. The presence of his father's handwriting on the flyleaf was still as legible as ever, and rendered it certain that the volume, so strangely recovered, was the identical one the loss of which he had so long deplored.

It can scarcely be hoped that every one will be so strangely lucky in their search for old books as the hero of this narrative, but there can be little doubt that some curious coincidences occur. The experienced in such matters, however, are agreed that few real bargains are nowadays picked up, the increased facilities for advertising for rare volumes, and the ever-multiplying number of collectors, having narrowed the chances of success. But mistakes may even still be made. The story is told of an American collector, who some years ago received a London bookseller's catalogue, containing a copy of the earliest French edition of Froissart marked at eighteen shillings. He immediately sent for the book and duly received it, paying the price set down in the catalogue, although another copy of the same edition had been sold in London a short time previously for £95, and the copy he had now obtained, being in much better condition, would readily have fetched much more. But we believe it to be a fact that at the present day few treasures are to be picked up in second-hand book-shops anywhere in the world. Indeed, so great is the number of people on the outlook for rare works, that it has frequently happened, when a would-be purchaser has gone home to procure the money for the discovered volume, he has found, on returning to the bookstall, that some one has stepped in before him and secured the prize-a fact that has caused the writer more than one bad quarter of an hour. A scarce volume never stays long on a bookseller's shelves nowadays, and he that happens to find on them a bargain must be quick in making up his mind or take the chances of finding it gone when he returns, be it in never so short a time.

COMMUNICATIONS.

THE BOOK TRADE AND THE MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION.

NEW YORK, August 24, 1897.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

THE manufacturing interests of the book trade are not represented in the Merchants' Association of New York, and I would suggest that all the allied branches of the book trade, as well as book publishers, may find it will largely benefit them to be identified and the extent and scope given. As it may not have occurred to them what possible advantages such a course might have for them, this may be worthy of suggestion through your columns. I have also called the attention of the secretary to the importance of having leading manufacturers of books represented.

Yours respectfully, HOWARD CHALLEN.

THE AUTHORIZED PUBLISHERS OF FRIDTJOF NANSEN.

New York, August 21, 1897.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

WE desire hereby to notify the public that we are the sole publishers in the United States of the only book prepared by Dr. Fridtjof Nansen and authorized by him to be published in the United States, which gives a complete and adequate account of his celebrated expedition to the Polar regions, and which is a duplicate of Dr. Nansen's book published in England. This book contains upon the title-page the following: "Farthest North being the Record of a Voyage of Exploration on the ship Fram, 1893-1896, and of a Fifteen Months' Sleigh Journey by Dr. Nansen and Lieutenant Johansen." Purchasers desiring to obtain the book prepared by Dr. Nansen should be careful to note that the above words, together with our name as publishers, appear upon the title-page of the book offered.

An action has been begun by us against certain persons who, as we claim, have infringed our rights in Dr. Nansen's book, and those who take part with them in such infringement will also be prosecuted.

HARPER & BROTHERS.

POSTAL MATTERS.

SOUVENIRS OF THE POSTAL CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, August 25.—The Post-Office Department has nearly completed an elaborate collection of souvenirs of the recent universal postal congress, and they will be shipped in a few days to all the delegates of that body. The collection includes an album of pictures of the congress at the hall, both interior and exterior, appropriate pictures of interest at Washington, and some views taken during the special excursion tendered the congress by the government when the nine days were occupied in seeing the country between the Massachusetts coast and the Mississippi River. There also will be a complete set of United States postage stamps, cancelled with the words Universal Postal Congress, and a silver medal of a size a little larger than half a dollar.

NEW YORK CITY POSTAL STATIONS.

POSTMASTER VAN COTT, New York City, returned from Washington August 24, much encouraged by his conference with Postmaster-General Gary and others of the General Post-Office authorities. He is sanguine that a number of the reforms and changes he has recommended in the system of collecting and distributing mails in the metropolis will be adopted.

Two stations on or close to Broadway, Mr. Van Cott says, are imperatively needed in the wholesale dry-goods district. Consolidation of the post-offices of Greater New York, Mr. Van Cott said, had not been even mentioned at the conference, and the project for a new and perfect post-office building with modern equipments, a pet project with the Postmaster, had likewise been tabooed.

MAILS FOR THE KLONDIKE.

CANADA and the United States have agreed upon co-operation in augmenting the postal facilities for the Klondike region, and the result will shortly be evidenced in a substantial doubling of the mail service from the coast into that district. The reply of Canada to Acting Postmaster-General Shallenberger's proposition to establish an exchange of mails at Circle City and Dawson City is a counter proposition, Canada agreeing to perform the service from Dawson City down to Dyea by means of a contract of her own, with reimbursement to be made by this Government for its share of the service.

This differs from this country's proposition in that under the latter the United States was to let the contract and look to Canada for reimbursement for the latter's share. The counter scheme, however, is satisfactory to the Post-Office Department. At present the district gets the benefit of mails once a month. The new arrangement will furnish semi-monthly mails, the trips probably being sandwiched between the dates designated in the present contract of the United States.

Canada's proposition was formally accepted by Acting Postmaster-General Shallenberger, and the Canadian Government notified of the action. Dyea, which is 100 miles above Juneau on the Lynn Canal, and Dawson City will be declared international postal exchange offices. The service will be under the immediate supervision of Canadian mounted police, and the carriers will be equipped with dogs and sledges and have Indian drivers. The first contract will be for one year.

SUIT AGAINST THE TROW DIRECTORY COMPANY.

Louis Hanneman, as receiver of the old and now dissolved Trow Printing Co., has brought a suit against the present Trow Directory, Printing and Bookbinding Co., attaching the transfer of the assets of the old company, made in 1891, to the present company.

Under the agreement the property was sold to the Trow Directory Company for $5000 in cash, 5475 shares of preferred stock of the Directory Company of the par value of $100 each, and 5475 shares of common stock of a similar value at par. Certificates were issued in the names of Robert W. Smith, the president of the company; Edward Lange, vice-president and treasurer, and Horace W. Thurber, who, with C. E. Lange, comprised the Directorate of the old firm. These Directors one day before the transfer was made arranged that the stock was to be paid to Lange, Thurber, and Smith, for their own use and benefit. Thurber is a creditor of the Printing and Bookbinding Company for $102,042, according to its books.

The Directory Company was incorporated eight days before the transfer, under the laws of New Jersey, with a capital of $1,500,000, its Directors being Robert W. Smith, president; Edward Lange, vice-president and treasurer; Francis B. Thurber, F. W. Hopkins, R. J. Dean, and A. Cheney. The present Directors of the existing Trow Directory, Printing and Bookbinding Company are James G. Cannon, vice-president of the Fourth National Bank; William H. Porter, vice-president of the Chase National Bank; R. W. Gibson, the architect; Philip Hathaway, Joseph F. Simmons, and G. P. Morosini.

Philip Hathaway, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Trow Directory, Printing and Bookbinding Company, has made the following statement in regard to the articles about his company, which have appeared in the newspapers:

i. The permission granted to the receiver of the old Trow Printing and Bookbinding Company to institute proceedings against the Trow Directory, Printing and Bookbinding Company was made on an ex parte application and was based on a statement of facts, the correctness of which the latter company is prepared to dispute.

2. The present Board of Directors of the Trow Directory, Printing and Bookbinding Company is a new board, elected by the action of dissatisfied stockholders in 1895, and had no connection with the formation of the company in 1891, or with any of the matters now complained of by the receiver of the old company.

3. My board is advised by its counsel that the present company, having paid in good faith an ample consideration for the property purchased from the old company in 1801, its title to such property is clear and unassailable, and that any claim in respect of any alleged improper distribution of the purchase money must be made against the parties by whom the distribution was made, and not against my company, which was in no way responsible for such distribution or the manner in which it was made.

The present managers believe from their examination of the transactions in 1891 that as soon as all the facts are made known the receiver's suit will be dismissed.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS IN RELATION TO BOOKS, Etc.

THE summary statement of the imports and exports of the United States for the month ending June, 1897, and for the twelve months ending the same, compared with the corresponding periods of 1896 (corrected to August 2, 1897), makes the following showing as regards books, music, maps, engravings, etchings, photographs, and other printed matter:

OBITUARY NOTES.

ADAM ASNYK, the famous Polish poet, has just died at Cracow, Russia, in his 59th year.

ALFRED ARNATH, the historian and Director of the Austrian State Archives, is dead, at the age of 78.

MARY KYLE DALLAS, the well-known writer for magazines, died at her home in New York City on August 25. For many years Mrs. Dallas was an indefatigable worker on the New York Ledger.

ARTHUR MIDDLEMORE MORGAN, Vicar of Mucking, E-sex, England, is dead. In 1855 he published his first volume of poems. Among his best-known published poems are "Gifts and Light: church verses," "Immanuel," and "Inter-Flumina: verses written among rivers."

ARMAYIS P. VARTOOGUIAN, a prominent young member of the Armenian colony in New York City, died on Friday, August 20. He had been illonly a few hours. Although only twenty-three years old, he had written voluminously on the Armenian outrages. He came here at the age of fourteen from Constantinople, his birthplace. Bookbinding was his occupation. A year ago he published a book, "Armenia's Ordeal," which is now in its second edition. It is a vigorous account of the Armenian troubles, and was favorably reviewed by a number of journals. Vartooguian also wrote letters which were printed in The Tribune and other papers.

THE distinguished chemist, Professor Victor Meyer, whose death occurred on August 22 at Heidelberg, Germany, was born in Berlin on September 8, 1848. At an early age he was appointed professor at the Polytechnic at Stuttgart, and he afterwards removed successively to Zurich, Göttingen, and Heidelberg. Not only was he the author of numerous original researches in organic chemistry, but was also a contributor to chemical physics, especially by improvements in the determination of vapor densities. Among his writings in recent years may be mentioned his "Chemische Probleme der Gegenwart," his "Ergebnisse und Ziele der stereochemischen Forschung," and his "Aus Natur und Wissenschaft." He was also the author, with Jacobson, of a recent "Lehrbuch der organischen Chemie."

FREDERIC DE FOREST ALLEN, Professor of Classical Philology in Harvard University, ruptured a blood vessel on August 4 and died in the evening of the same day. Mr. Allen was born at Oberlin, O., May 25, 1844. He graduated from Oberlin in 1863, studied at Leipzig, was successively tutor at Hartford, Greek professor at Yale, and in 1880 was called to Harvard, where he has done fine work for seventeen years. Among his published works are an edition of the "Medea of Euripides," a volume of "Remnants of Early Latin," a version of "Hadley's Greek Grammar," an elaborate technical treatise on "Greek Versification in Inscriptions," and many papers in his special study of philology. Professor Allen had musical talent as well. He wrote the music for the play "Phormio" of Terence, which was acted at Harvard. The alumni and students of Harvard are deeply shocked at the untimely death of the ripe scholar in whom they took such just pride.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

HALL CAINE has planned a new work which will deal with the great "drink question."

GEORGE MEREDITH has written a long poem on the French Revolution, which will probably be published very soon in a volume by itself.

HAROLD FREDERIC has written a novel in which he has departed from his familiar American scenes. The new book deals with English life.

The only woman who has written opera librettos in four languages is said to be the Queen of Rumania—in literature Carmen Sylva. She has produced librettos in French, in German, in Swedish, and in Rumanian.

THE granddaughter of the naturalist, John James Audubon, Miss Maria Audubon, of Salem, N. Y., has worked for twelve years in the translation of her grandfather's unpublished journals, which were written in French, the letters being so small that a magnifying-glass was necessary to decipher many of them.

PROF. GOLDWIN SMITH has completed his "Political History of England," and is touching it up here and there before handing it to his publishers. The Macmillan Co. His "Guesses at the Riddles of Existence" has called forth many criticisms. In reply he has written an essay, separately issued by The Macmillan Co. Although in hisseventy-sixth year, Prof. Goldwin Smith is hale and hearty, and finds time, in addition to much literary activity, to contribute largely to the Weekly Sun, of Toronto.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

P. K. FOLEY, 67 Chauncy Street, Boston, has in preparation an interesting catalogue of books for sale, consisting largely of first editions of American and English authors. The copies are, with few exceptions, in the original bindings, and many contain autograph letters and presentation inscriptions of the authors. The catalogue will also include some local histories, from the library of a collector, besides a few unpublished letters of eminent authors.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

It is stated that Kipling's "Captains Courageous" has recently appeared in Russian, in serial form.

CHARLES A. CLAPP, of E. P. Dutton & Co., publishers, booksellers, etc., returned recently from a prolonged business and pleasure trip in Great Britain and on the Continent.

THE first publication to be issued by Belford, Middlebrook & Co., the new publishing house established at Akron, Ohio, will be an edition in ten volumes of the lectures of Prof. J. L. Stoddard, to be as fully illustrated as the lectures are by stereopticon views.

L. C. PAGE & COMPANY, of Boston, announce for immediate publication a romantic novel entitled "The Count of Nideck," translated and adapted by Ralph Browning Fiske from the French of Erckmann-Chatrian, and illustrated by Victor A. Searles.

THE LEAGUE OF AMERICAN WHEELMEN have now ready their long-expected book of road maps, called "Fifty Miles Around New York," which really covers more ground than the title calls for. The volume is compact and suitable for the pocket. Twenty thousand is the first edition.

R. F. Fenno & Co. will publish shortly a new novel by Miss M. E. Braddon, to be entitled "When the World was Younger," treating of the events of the reign of Charles II. The publication of William Clark Russell's "A Romance of a Midshipman," announced for this fall, has been postponed until next year.

A NEW series of historical books especially prepared for the young, under the general title The Children's Study, is announced by Thomas Whittaker. The following volumes are nearly ready, viz.: "Greece," by Alice Zimmern, "Rome," by Mary Ford, and "France," by Mary C. Rowsell. The "United States" is to be written by Minna Smith, of Boston.

SEVERAL scholars in Japan, according to the Japan Times, are now making a special study of Dante. Among them is the Rev. Masahisa Uyemura, who is said to have under contemplation the composition of an essay on the great Italian poet. A society under the title of "Danate Kenkyukwai," an association for studying Dante's writings, is likely to be organized by the admirers of the poet.

THE appearance of Hinds & Noble's new "New Testament Lexicon" and the first volume of the "Interlinear Old Testament" have been delayed by their decision to add to the former a complete presentation of the Synonyms of the Greek Testament and to the latter the Tables of the Hebrew Verb. These additions have been completed and both books are now in the binder's hands, and there is every prospect of their being ready before the middle of September.

In view of the increasing interest in Polish literature, T. Y. Crowell & Company announce an English translation of the great historical novel, "The Pharaoh," from the Polish of Boleslaw Prus. The publishers have also arranged for the publication of "General Grant's Letters to a Friend," edited by General James Grant Wilson. The volume will contain a number of letters in addition to those which have appeared in the North American Review, and will be ready in time for the holidays.

ESTES & LAURIAT have just published their first two holiday books, both devoted to colonial and revolutionary American history. "The Boys of Fort Schuyler," by James Otis, illustrated by George Foster Barnes, tells the story of the defence of Fort Schuyler by famous heroes who laid down their lives before the invading foe in desperate struggle, and "The Signal Boys of '75," by the same popular author, is a tale of Boston during the siege, bringing in the midnight ride of Paul Revere to rouse the minute-men of Lexington.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will publish in book form "Perpetua, a tale of Nimes in A.D. 213," by S. Baring-Gould, now running in The Churchman as a serial. The same publishers announce "Baby Days," a book for records in a baby's life, illustrated in color. The publishers also promise a two-volume biography of Phillips Brooks, written by A. V. G. Allen. It will include considerable correspondence and will be illustrated. They will also bring out, under the title of "The New Book of the Fairies," a collection of fairy-tales by Beatrice Harraden, published in England some five years ago.

THE UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING Co., Chicago, have just added to their Standard Literature Series Longfellow's "Evangeline," edited by Edward Everett Hale, Jr., with historical and critical introduction, and suggestions for study of the characters and for textual study, and also giving accurate maps of Nova Scotia and Louisiana. Other volumes in this excellent series just issued include Defoe's "Robinson Crusoe," Scott's "Ivanhoe," and "Poems of Knightly Adventure," including Tennyson's "Gareth and Lynette," Macaulay's "Horatius," Lowell's "Vision of Sir Launfal," and Matthew Arnold's "Sohrab and Rustum."

THE man against whom the trade was warned in the last issue of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY was arrested and held for examination in Jefferson Market Court on Friday, August 20, on a charge of attempted forgery preferred by The Merriam Co. Charles Burckhardt, of E. P. Dutton & Co., sends the following facts: On Friday morning A. J. Saalfield, of The Merriam Co., was summoned by a clerk to sell a bill of goods to a man from Boston, giving the name of Bennett. Mr. Saalfield at once sent for Mr. Burckhardt, of Dutton's, who recognized the man by his voice, although he had shaved off his mustache since his visit at Dutton's. Telling Mr. Saalfield to accept the check, Mr. Burckhardt walked out, hailed a policeman, and when the man came out had him arrested on the plea that he was wanted in Boston. He was held until Sunday morning to hear from Boston. He said he had been sent to the Merriam's by Warren Snyder, of Wanamaker's, and spoke as though he was all right and in the trade.
